A History of Girls' Comics

Although traditionally women creators have long been a minority in the comic book industry, they have made notable impact since its very beginning, and more and more female artists gain recognition along with the maturing of the medium. Women creators have worked in every genre, from superheroes to romance, westerns to war, crime to horror.

In the Post-occupational years, particularly between 1950 and 1969, an increasingly large readership for manga was established, leading to the division into two main marketing genres - shōnen, aimed at boys, and shōjo, dedicated to girls. In shōnen, one can find comics that were sub-divided according to age: boys up to 18 years old, young men 18 to 30 years old, known as seinen, and adult, grown men, referred to as seijin manga. Charged with action, adventure, fighting of all kinds, as ...
