Although there is much more to be learned, research suggests that people with Asperger's Syndrome have the same sexual interests and issues as people in the general population ( Lawson, 2005; Henault, 2006 ). The bottom line is that adults with Asperger's are as interested in sex as everyone else. But just as sex and intimacy can present major difficulties for neurotypical adults, adding Asperger's to the mix creates additional complexities.
