The Oriflamme (from Latin aurea flamma, "golden flame") was the battle standard of the King of France in the Middle Ages. It was originally the sacred banner of the Abbey of St. Denis, a monastery near Paris. When the oriflamme was raised in battle by the French royalty during the Middle Ages, most notably during the Hundred Years War, no prisoners were to be taken until it was lowered.

The Battle of the Banner was the second-largest and most strategically decisive battle of the conflict known as the War of Copper Knives. The battle was fought between forces of Wachter and Ionelus on and around the main bridge of the Old Svalich Road crossing the River Luna. The battle began after a Vallaki Garda officer attempted to prevent an Ionelus soldier from defecting, and ended with a decisive victory for the Wachter Militia and the establishment of a heavily-guarded foothold on ...

The Battle of Barnet was a decisive engagement in the Wars of the Roses, a dynastic conflict of 15th-century England. The military action, along with the subsequent Battle of Tewkesbury, secured the throne for Edward IV. On 14 April 1471 near Barnet, then a small Hertfordshire town north of London, Edward led the House of York in a fight against the House of Lancaster, which backed Henry VI for ...
